

National Cake Day: 5 Ways To Celebrate In NYC

November 25, 2016 5:50 AM

(credit: Empire Cakes)

National Cake Day is November 26! Just in time for the holidays, now is the time to celebrate this special time with a few sweet treats. Here are five of our favorite bakeries that are serving up some seriously delicious cakes. By Carly Petrone.

Max Brenner

More: Best Chocolate Shops In New York

Okay, this isn't technically a cake, but the Chocolate Pizza from famous chocolatier Max Brenner is a pretty sweet way to celebrate National Cake Day — plus it has all of the elements of a delicious cake. Create your own "pizza" using milk and white chocolate chunks and your choice of "toppings," from crunch hazelnut bits, melted peanut butter, marshmallows, and more. One bite of this gooey concoction and you'll be hooked! Can't make it to a Max Brenner shop? Head over to the Holiday Shops at Bryant Park and test out a slice at their stand. A nice cup of their hot chocolate will also warm you up while you wait.

(credit: Max Brenner)